Alliant National Title's General Counsel Appointed as Texas Land Title Association's President-Elect

Honor bestowed to those who contribute in regulatory matters, education

LONGMONT—Alliant National Title Insurance Company, a unique title insurance underwriter that partners with Independent Agents to improve their competitive position in the marketplace, announces that Alliant National's General Counsel and Senior Vice President, Phyllis Mulder, was named President-Elect for the Texas Land Title Association (TLTA). The TLTA President-Elect aids the President in the performance of his or her duties, serves as Treasurer of the Association, and automatically succeeds to the office of President in the following year.

Mulder's term lasts from June 2010 until June 2011, at which time she will succeed to the office of President. Prior to the appointment, Mulder served on TLTA's Board of Directors for four years. She has also served on many TLTA committees, including all of the education-related committees, regulatory, and federal issues. .

"I have thoroughly enjoyed my service to the TLTA and am honored with this appointment," says Mulder, " I look very forward to serving the TLTA Board and members. I am eager to work hard this next year in supporting all of the many efforts the TLTA assumes on behalf of the title industry."

In addition to practicing law for several years as a real estate attorney, Mulder's experience includes experience as both an underwriting counsel and claims counsel. She holds a Juris Doctorate degree from the University of Texas School of Law.

"TLTA is honored to have Phyllis Mulder serving as TLTA President-Elect this year as she prepares to take the helm as President in 2011," says Leslie Midgley, TLTA Executive Vice President. "Phyllis has been an integral part of TLTA's volunteer leadership for many years and her contributions, particularly in the areas of education and regulatory matters, are too numerous to name. She will be an enormous asset to the association in this important new role and we congratulate her on this achievement."
