Alliant National Title Insurance Company Adds Vice President/Florida Agency Representative

Veteran Agency Manager brings experience, relationship-building to Florida

LONGMONT—Alliant National Title Insurance Company, a unique title insurance underwriter that partners with Independent Agents to improve their competitive position in the marketplace, is pleased to announce that Donna Slomins joined the company as Vice President/Florida Agency Representative effective September 15, 2010. Slomins is responsible for developing relationships with agents, and assistance and management of Alliant's agency programs.

Slomins brings experience serving as agency manager for major underwriters, covering most of the state throughout her stellar career. In her 26 years in the industry she has worked in management and sales for some of the largest underwriters in the title insurance business. Slomins' reputation as a knowledgeable, hard worker, who works closely with her agents, firmly precedes her in title insurance circles.

"Donna's character and vast industry knowledge make her a wonderful addition to our Florida staff," says David Ginger, Alliant National President. "Donna is a proven leader, and she's among the best in Florida at developing long lasting relationships with great agents of all types and sizes. The many time-tested relationships she has forged through the years are based on her integrity and her ability to relate to her agents.”

“I am thrilled to be a part of the Alliant National team,” says Slomins. “Alliant National sets the bar for agency growth, independence and integrity. I look forward to forging relationships with Florida agents in my new position.”

Alliant National’s mission is to protect property owners’ investment by providing secure title insurance delivered by the finest Independent Agents available. Alliant National provides a partnership environment with its agents that improves the accuracy, efficiency and timeliness of its products, while improving the knowledge base of its agents, and offering the best title products and services possible.
